

Introducing Brett de Hoedt, a Master of Ceremonies and keynote speaker who doesn't want to talk about himself. (No, really!)

Instead; he wants to talk about your audience.

Brett knows that your audience wants to feel that the people on stage understand them, their industry and their issues. Audiences want a speaker or emcee who makes them feel that they are part of something special.

Audiences want to be engaged, informed and entertained. They don't want some predictable script-reader. They can handle a challenge.

And when sensitive issues are discussed, audiences want them handled with comfort.

In short, they want this guy on the right. (Surprise – this is all about Brett after all.)

Relax, there's more about Brett below.

Brett de Hoedt boasts a notable career spanning print journalism (New Idea, The Sunday Age and SMH) talk radio producing and hosting (3AK, 3MP), TV publicity (Seven Network) and the establishment of a successful communications agency Hootville Communications. His podcast The Hardest Word has won awards and international airplay.

There's no other way of putting it – he loves the spotlight. Happily he also loves learning about your issues, comes laden with questions to ask and quips aplenty. Happily though he will concede the attention to your speakers at the right time.
